

ICoMusic has a very limited program to provide college students with professional instruments. As you can imagine the cost of professional instruments is very high so we must LIMIT this program.

This program is also available to young people going to college that want to major in music.

Program A: We provide the instrument at no cost to the student. The students must apply to the ICoMusic Foundation directly, have a recommendation letter from a teacher, tell us why they love music this instrument etc. and provide us with a performance video. Again, these professional instruments are very limited and our Board will make the decision as to who will receive the instruments.

Program B: We offer professional instruments at a greatly reduced price to college students or students going to college. These prices are available to any college student.
